DESIGN GUIDELINES

FABRIC PARTITIONS

There are four types of fabric partitions:

1. Standard partitions (with fabric panels or echo panels above and below rail)
2. Partitions with power/data below rail (fabric panels above and below rail but with cut-outs for power/data in the panel below the rail)
3. Partitions with power/data above rail (fabric panels above and below rail but with cut-outs for power/data in the panel above the rail)
4. Partitions that have a door (fabric panel above the door frame)

STANDARD PARTITIONS

Standard height of the rail is 900mm from ground, unless specified otherwise

Partitions over 900mm long will either need internal supports or the partition will need to be made in more than one piece

Most have fabric panels on both sides of the partition, unless it is specified otherwise (i.e. only on one side)

PARTITIONS WITH POWER BELOW RAIL

These partitions are the same as the standard partitions with the only difference being that there is cut-outs for power/data in the fabric panel/s below the rail.

PARTITIONS WITH POWER ABOVE RAIL

These partitions are the same as the standard partitions with the only difference being that there is cut-outs for power/data in the fabric panel/s above the rail.

DOOR PARTITIONS

These partitions usually have a standard internal door with fabric panels above, depending on overall height of the partition.

Door and hardware needs to be ordered for each job

SPECIFICATIONS

All worktops over 2400W will be made as two piece, unless specifically agreed at time of order.

Standard join for two piece top includes edging to both sides – 2 x desktop cleats supplied

For all grained worktops - the grain will run along the longer side unless otherwise specified, the handling will be evenly alternated between LH to RH for evenly sized tops.
